00:00:04 So we have a lot of jokes in the office. There's a lot of lightheartedness that comes along with this as well – [it's] also part of the healing process. A lot of the times I can hold a handful of eyeballs and tell my husband I only have eyes for you. We hear a lot of don't roll your eyes at me or I see you in a new way, or a lot of lot of puns in this office.

00:00:26 We actually have a patient who would take his eye out and set it on the entertainment center and tell his young children that he is watching them and not to misbehave when he leaves the room. And until they got old enough to realize the eye couldn't see – also it couldn't be taken out of his head and still see. It's very comical to see the lighthearted side of all of the experiences.
